MURCHISON & CUMMING LLP

DEFINED BY...

The factors that define a modern law firm are many. Size, tradition, location and practice specialties all say something about what you offer. For Murchison & Cumming, it has been about strong relationships and excellent results for more than 80 years. We have earned the trust, confidence and respect of our clients, many of whom have called on us for decades, because we have delivered for them, time and again.

Our disciplined, deliberate and aggressive approach to defending civil litigation has served our clients well. Focused attention on early evaluation and resolution is what allows us to achieve targeted results as early as possible in litigated matters. Together with our clients we develop an appropriate defense strategy, litigation plan and time schedule. We are a working firm and our partners and of counsel are "hands on" with each and every matter.

Clients do not want "surprises" in litigation and neither do we. We communicate with clients regularly and often, and aggressively pursue the targeted result in a focused, efficient and effective manner.

Murchison & Cumming is defined by...

Teamwork At Murchison & Cumming, our clients are our partners, with whom we work hand-in-hand to craft solutions that hit the mark when it comes to addressing their legal needs, needs unique to particular products, industries, geographic areas and business interests. It is that teamwork that allows us to address cutting-edge issues and take the lead in evolving areas of the law.

Commitment We are committed to the practice of law, to client service and to consistently delivering quality legal services with excellent results. We have tried hundreds of cases to verdict, received thousands of favorable rulings on key motions, negotiated thousands upon thousands of settlements and handled the business needs of innumerable clients. We work together, blending our unique backgrounds and perspectives, so that the solutions we offer and the outcomes we drive are ones that will best meet our clients' needs and goals.

Passion The word defines how Murchison & Cumming attorneys and staff approach their professional and personal lives. We believe our passion shows through in our dedication to our clients, our work, our families and our communities. As a firm, we embrace our responsibility to our communities and our neighbors.

Service There is no substitute for great service. Our longstanding client relationships reflect our ability to consistently deliver top-notch service with each and every representation. We understand the financial aspects of litigation and legal services and teach our lawyers and staff about the economics of litigation. Simply stated, we are committed to providing true value for clients' litigation dollars.
